

Dear Parents

The three charts represent the Old Testament (minus the Psalms), the New Testament with the Psalms, and a simplified Old Testament for children. Here are some suggestions for how you might use them.

1. When a child is able to read well and you want to help them develop the habit of daily bible reading, they could read one chapter per day of the Simplified OT. This is the first of the following charts and comes with boxes so your child can record their progress by coloring or checking the box next to the chapter they have read each day. Children following this chart will read most of the historical books in the OT. While they are using this chart for their personal devotions, the family could the NT and Psalms aloud in the family worship time.
2. If someone wanted to read two chapters each day for their personal Bible study they could read use the NT and Psalms chart along with the Simplified Old Testament. The first chart would be their bookmark in the Old Testament and the second chart could save their place in the New Testament and Psalms. Each day would include one chapter in the OT and another chapter either in the NT or Psalms.
3. When you are ready to read the entire Bible in a year, choose the Old Testament chart in conjunction with the New Testament and Psalms guide. Use the OT chart as a bookmark in the Old Testament and the NT chart to mark your place in the New Testament and Psalms.
4. Older children and adults could read daily in the complete OT chart, and the family could gather for family worship and read the NT and Psalms aloud. In this manner you would each read through the Bible in one year.
5. Or younger children could read the NT and Psalms each day, which is usually one chapter, and parents and older children could read The OT and the NT readings for their personal devotions. Then all would be reading on the same NT schedule and you could discuss what you had read each day as a family during your family worship time.

Of course, as parents, you have been called to train and teach your children, and are thus uniquely qualified to discern what is best for your family. Whichever way you choose to study God's word as a family and individually, I trust you will have a blessed time. As I have said in the tape on Daily Bible Reading and Devotions, there is no one way to study the Bible. I have found these charts to be a help to me, but you may come up with a different approach. May you read the word with joy, with diligence, and free from condemnation.

Simplified Old Testament Bible Reading

If you want to develop the habit of daily Bible reading, begin by reading one chapter each day of the simplified OT. This chart comes with boxes so you can chart your progress by coloring or checking the box next to the chapter after you read it. This chart covers most of the historical books of the OT in one year.
